SISTER TELLS OF LIFE OF SHAME

Brother Weeps as He Hears
Story of Life and Com-

Charles Armitage, of this city. Her brother, W. H. String, a Stanford graduate and attorney at law from Mammoth, Oregon, assisted in her defense. As she told the story of her waywardness, how in the California restaurant she made the acquaintance of the companion, and how she took a diamond pin and watch from him, after he had made improper advances toward her, her brother bowed his head low and, finally being unable to restrain himself, broke into tears and retired from the courtroom.

Have Many Admirers

She and her companion, Claire Curtis, a bookkeeper, aged nineteen years and the daughter of a druggist, had been making a tour of the coast cities. Admittedly they picked up on the street, and usually, paid their bills. They took money and jewelry from those "protectors" whom they found who were only too willing to take advantage of their youth and innocence. The companion pleaded guilty to having robbed Alexander McTeer of $80 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $200. McTeer was a good protector and, according to both his story and the story of the girl, he was in love with her and aside from the impropriety of permitting him a few stolen earrings, no wrong was done. McTeer's love cost him his jewelry.

Love at First Sight

Armitage, however, was a more impatient admirer. In his haste to win the affection of the young girl he did not wait to gain the girl's heart but tried to carry out a program of love at first sight. While he was attempting to fondle and caress the girl in a box at the California restaurant she repaid his advances by stealing his watch and diamond pin.

When the young girl took the witness stand she was advised by her brother and her attorney, J. P. Brennan, to tell all of the truth. She is her story as told in response to the question of Prosecuting Attorney Henneman:

"I was attending St. Mary's College in Portland before I left for Los Angeles. I also had attended business colleges. When I reached Los Angeles last November I went to work in a book store. I met Claire Curtis, whom I had known in Oregon about a year before. We finally decided to go home. We came to Oakland and we got into the trouble."

"I was waiting for Claire Curtis in the restaurant when I was accosted by a man. He wanted me to go into a box. I refused for a half an hour. As I was hungry I finally went in and ordered a chicken sandwich.

"He wanted me to drink whiskey. I did not but took mineral water. He had four or five drinks. He finally pinned the curtains together. I objected, but he told me his wife just went to bed."

Tries to Kiss Her
"He then tried to embrace me. I objected. He insisted and it was then I decided to steal his watch and pin. I told him I would meet him later, and left the restaurant. I never kept the appointment. Claire and I then went to San Francisco and took rooms at 521 Ambury street, San Francisco. We were arrested there and told the detective all."

During the cross-examination of the young girl by Henneman, she was subjected to severe questioning but did not vary materially from her story. She had, however, attempted to shield the companion and also her friend, known as Leroy Wright, and also John Benson, who pawned the diamonds pin. Her loyalty to these two persons caused the prosecutor to prompt her to tell all of the truth and not try to fence with him.

Police Judge Samuels held her to answer and fixed the bail at $2000. Her brother subsequently supplied the bonds and the young girl was released. She left in company with her brother, happy to once again be in the sunlight. She will, in all probability, be placed on probation.

VALENTINE PARTY PROVES SUCCESS

Mignonette Club Introduces Pretty Novelty in Grand
March

The Valentine party given by the Mignonette Social Club at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Randall on February 16 was a great success, despite the disagreeable weather. The hall was artistically decorated with greens, hearts and red and white carnations. Just before the grand march, led by Miss Mary Downey, garbed in a beautiful Valentine costume, little red hearts with gold numbers were distributed to the ladies and gentlemen. The gentlemen were required to find the corresponding number on the lady's heart at a partner in the grand march. The novelty caused much laughter and merriment. After the dance a buffet lunch was served. Dr. A. A. Arboret, of San Francisco, sang two beautiful songs which were enjoyed by Miss Daisy Popplewell and Mr. Ellis Randall gave a pretty exhibition in fancy dancing. Miss Violet Gebhart, an accomplished dancer, gave a beautiful Valentine dance, with much applause by her work.

Much of the success of the social is due to the untiring efforts of the officers. The club was organized late this winter.

DUCKS JUST AS SHOT IS FIRED

Robber Suspect Escapes With Watchman and Engineer in Pursuit

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—The sight of a ladder resting against the sill of a window of the second floor of the Hotel Normandie at Sutter and Franklin streets, with the base of the ladder standing on a shed in the rear of the hotel, attracted the attention of Watchman Mat Coghlan last evening as he was making his rounds of the premises. Summoning the engineer of the hotel to assist him in capturing the crook he thought was in the room, Coghlan returned in time to see a form jump from the ladder on to the shed.

"Hello, fellows," the young man shouted, as he jumped from the shed to the sidewalk, dropping just in time to duck a shot fired by the watchman. A pursuit by Coghlan and the engineer failed to result in his capture, and the burglar, if such he was, made good his escape.

The room he had made access to was occupied by Miss Margaret Semmly. That young woman reported that nothing was stolen.

PRIMARY BILL BEING ARGUED

Important Measure Is Being
Debated in the Senate
This Afternoon

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 18.—The Assembly passed today with only one dissenting vote, a bill drawn by the special banking commission appointed at the last session of the Legislature establishing a State department of banking. It was sent to the Governor at once.

Grove L. Johnson of Sacramento offered six amendments and the ensuing debate occupied almost the entire forenoon. However, all were voted down and the bill was passed.

Wright Bill
The Senate took up the Wright direct primary bill, endorsed by the State primary league, and began the final struggle over the questions of election of United States Senators by direct vote. Members of the committee on elections and election laws, who recommended that the senatorial provision be stricken out, led the fight for the amendment. Senator Leroy A. Wright of San Diego, sponsor for the bill in the upper House, spoke for more than an hour against it.

The discussion was upon a motion by H. S. G. McCarty of Los Angeles to send the bill back to the committee.

When the debate on the Wright-Stanton direct primary election bill began in the Senate this morning, Senator McCarty of Los Angeles offered a resolution providing that the bill be referred to the committee on elections and election laws for amendment, along two lines. He proposed that the bill be changed so as to require a 25 per cent plurality for nomination in local office and a 40 per cent plurality for nomination to State office, non-candidate to go to conventions should no candidate receive the fixed plurality.

He also proposed an advisory vote on United States Senator by districts.

The Debate
Senator Leroy A. Wright of San Diego, the author of the bill, opposed the resolution on the ground that it would be unconstitutional. Senators John W. Stetson of Oakland and Charles C. Cutten of Eureka took the same stand.

Senator Henry M. Willis of Redlands argued that the amendments were necessary to make the bill conform to the Federal constitution. Senator Frank W. Leavitt argued along similar lines.

Senator Marc Anthony of San Francisco and Senator H. M. Hurd of Los Angeles spoke against the resolution and for the original bill, receiving applause from the galleries.

Mrs. Bennett, according to the evidence, was a faithful wife to Raymond and he helped on their domestic prosperity by taking in sewing. But Bennett, who is a rounder according to his wife, would beat her unmercifully whenever he found his wife had money, and take it away from her to spend in dissipation. Not satisfied with this, Mrs. Bennett told the court that he robbed her of her savings and after he had reduced her to object was to send her into a dreary life to earn money for his vices.

Her life had been one long period of misery in the clutches of the man who destroyed her love, wrecked her domestic life and finally drove her to the divorce court.

and the only food she received was brought in a basket by her husband.

"Mrs. Van Hurst suffered great pain and told me she believed her husband was trying to poison her, because he was in love with another woman, and I have seen Dr. Van Hurst constantly in the company of a woman who called here for him a number of times. "I and other women in the house have seen them on the street arm in arm, and he has kissed her downstairs in the doorway repeatedly."

Only Good Friend
Dr. Van Hurst says he believes the woman Mrs. Jones refers to is a Mrs. Colwell, of Los Angeles, whom he asserts, has been "a good friend in time of trouble."

"I have been with Mrs. Colwell frequently, and she has advised me in the case of my wife. We have musical tastes in common, but I am not in love with her and never have been."

He refuses to either affirm or deny that he mistreated his wife, but he does not deny that she should have been taken to a hospital.

Dr. John Purves, a physician with offices in the Blake building, claims that Dr. Van Hurst is an Austrian baron.

"He comes from a very old family," says Dr. Purves, "and I have known him for years. Though I have heard rumors of his ill-treatment of his wife and his devotion to this other woman, I do not believe they are true."

BY 'FOOTLIGHTS.'

Glau and his overweight chorus from the "Aeroplane" company have returned to New York in what may be described as greatly reduced circumstances. Not as to finances let it be said nor yet in numbers, glau be but in avoidupolis that is to say gross flesh. The entire galaxy has lost, out in this respect, much to its advantage.

It seems the people out west will not sit still but will move and out famous "balloon chorus" called so to speak no weight with them. They treated that prize collection of fat. Now, however, they are in an unprecedented predicament. Consequently, glau faced the problem of reducing two entire front ends. At once, or shipping them back "excess baggage." It was a terrible task, but our ingenious townsmen tackled it and succeeded in making all right in fact. And thereby having a tale worthy of any fat man's situation.

Glau didn't reduce his back into shape, nor did he turn into a shadow. He paid subject a healthy and let them eat and drink as they listed. He simply hung up a new rule in the dressing room to the effect that excess fat was there five foot seven who weighed in excess of 150 pounds must take a tenpennyful of each meal and at bedtime (or about where her bedtime ought to be) of this following: One half ounce Atomole, 1 ounce Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla and 1/2 ounce Peppermint Water.

They did it and in a month averaged a loss of a pound a day. "That's a dandy receipt," says Glau. "Simple, pleasant, harmless and works. Even the word go. With it could get a railroad rate reduced or half as good."

BANKING MEASURE ARGUED IN SENATE

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 18.—Most of the morning session of the Assembly was devoted to a discussion of the California Banking bill.

Grove L. Johnson of Sacramento offered several amendments.

He argued that the bill was too broad in its provisions allowing the trust companies to transact commercial and savings bank business. He also objected to the section permitting savings banks to purchase and hold bonds.

Another point raised by the Sacramento Assemblyman was that under the proposed new law savings banks might purchase bonds of street railways, water light and power gas and other public utility and public corporations. He declared this provision too general and wanted the words "And other public utility and public corporations" stricken out.

Mr. Johnson closed the debate on his amendment asserting that if the bill were enacted into law as it stood the Legislature two years hence would change it. Each of the amendments then was rejected and the bill was passed as introduced by the Senate.

For an hour and a half Johnson registered the only negative vote.

A number of Dr. Tanner's friends were of the opinion that his resignation would not be accepted, but the congregation would call upon him to continue his work in Melrose.

At the meeting last night, however, this did not prove to be the case and the pastor's resignation was promptly accepted. His resignation will take effect some time in April.

The kirmies, with its many haunts, attracted society to the night life of the Central theater in San Francisco. The smartest of the city had gathered the performance, which will remain on the boards until Saturday night. Up to that time the members of the social set of San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley will avail itself of the opportunity of witnessing one of the most interesting performances ever given by the ladies of the younger set. It is proving a great social and financial success. The proceeds derived from the affair will be devoted to the Children's Hospital and San Francisco Margaret.

MARTIN DEL ROSA. The British consular agent, arrested last week by the publication of a cablegram exchanged between General Blanco at Havana and the governor of the city of Santiago, Cuba, to General Shafter on July 7, 1898, has been further incriminated by his appearance in the city of Santiago, Cuba, on July 10. It is understood that the government found that Blanco was undoubtedly opposed to surrendering the city to the Americans, and that he had the commander at Santiago giving him a free hand to make terms.

General Blanco, on July 12, telegraphed to General Shafter, asking for instructions and instructing him to insist that General Shafter allow the Spanish garrison to leave the city, and that the United States or Spanish ships as otherwise Spain would continue the defense. "According to your suggestion," General Blanco said, "I have no objection to the evacuation of the city, but I must be found to assume the responsibility for these situations." It is reported that this responsibility was accepted that day by the United States, and that the British agent, who had been holding the post,

The same day General Blazco's cable to Madrid that the fortunes of the fight against the "Sindicato" were becoming hopeless had become impossible, but that "there must not surrender except on honorable conditions." Nevertheless, General Toral on July 17 only ordered the whole army corps with its war material to be surrendered to Madrid. Blazco had interpreted the government, saying he could have prevented it on the terms immediately added.

In spite of its dismemberment the army continues active and the war can be continued.

The Correspondent, which publishes these dispatches, declares the exchanges acquired General Blazco of any responsibility and prove the sad truth that the only way to bring an end to a preliminary to making peace.

The Case of Snell.

The case of Charles P. Snell furnishes a suggestive if not instructive example of the workings of the system of purchasing the testimony of criminals with guarantees of immunity from prosecution for their offenses against the law. It also shows how the law can be used as a protection for criminals as well as an instrument for the punishment of crime.

Snell is a protege of William J. Burns by whom he was brought into the immunity contract fold. He is also a self-confessed scoundrel. He was the chief witness for the government against Dr. E. B. Perrin and John A. Benson, charged with conspiring to make fraudulent land entries. Perrin and Benson were convicted mainly on the evidence of Snell, who had earned a shady reputation in Colorado and Arizona before he entered the employ of Dr. Perrin.

Prior to the indictment of Perrin and Benson Snell had vainly been seeking to extort $44,000 from Dr. Perrin as payment for alleged services as an attorney or land locator or something of that sort, and threatening to expose him to disgrace and criminal prosecution if he did not pay. Perrin refused to pay, saying he owed Snell nothing, that Snell was a blackmailer and that his threats to expose land frauds were thrown out to frighten Perrin into submitting to blackmail. It was after Snell had failed to extort money from Perrin that he fell into the hands of Burns and became a witness for the prosecution on an immunity basis.

Francis J. Heney, who was formerly the attorney for Perrin in Arizona and has since become his brother-in-law, stigmatized in writing Snell and his coadjutors as blackmailers, and repeatedly advised Dr. Perrin to do nothing in the matter and pay no attention to the threats of "the blackmailers," as he termed Snell and his confederates.

But Perrin was indicted on Snell's evidence given at the instigation of William J. Burns, and since then the friendship between Perrin and Heney has been changed to enmity.

Dr. Perrin declares that during his trial Snell committed no less than seven perjuries, as he can prove by documentary evidence, that instead of telling the truth, as he ostensibly engaged himself to do, Snell took advantage of his immunity contract to swear Dr. Perrin into prison to revenge his resistance to a blackmailing demand. After vainly striving to get Snell prosecuted for perjury in the Federal Courts Robert H. Perrin, brother of Dr. Perrin, sued out a warrant for Snell's arrest on a charge of perjury in Judge Shortall's department of the San Francisco Police Court, former Congressman Barclay Heney appearing as a prosecutor on behalf of the Perrins.

Now the prosecution has been disowned by the United States District Attorney and District Attorney Langdon, and the action of Heney repudiated. No official prosecuting office, either State or Federal, will turn a hand against Snell. The government seems determined to protect its immunity contract witness, and District Attorney Langdon has on his hands a large batch of immunity grantees who are heided and kept in the "good dog" class by Burns.

As a matter of fact to prosecute Snell would be to impeach and bring under judicial review the methods of Burns. Since the conviction of Perrin and Benson Snell has made a sworn affidavit before an Arizona notary that he committed perjury in the Perrin trial, and that he did so at the instigation of Burns. Snell was indicted by an Arizona Grand Jury, but as the alleged perjuries were committed in San Francisco, the Arizona courts have no jurisdiction. District Attorney Langdon declines to take action on the ground that the State courts have no jurisdiction, and the United States District Attorney refuses to prosecute on the ground that there is not sufficient evidence to warrant the charge of perjury.

The condition is certainly an extraordinary one. We have opinion to offer as to the guilt or innocence of Perrin and Benson, but the history of their case and the connection of Snell and Burns with it affords a wide field for speculation, and an insight into the workings of the immunity system that is exceedingly illuminating.

Demise of a Notable Californian.

Unnoticed by the telegraph and almost unnoticed by the journalistic fraternity of California, of which he was once a shining light, George C. Gorham ended his earthly career at Washington, D. C., on the 11th instant. The inconspicuousness of his demise aptly illustrates the quickness the activities in which some men have been prominent are forgotten by the public.

In Civil War times George C. Gorham was one of the most brilliant and energetic Unionists in California. Endowed with eloquence of speech and virility in the use of the pen as a newspaper editor and writer Gorham was in the later sixties and the earlier seventies one of the most prominent figures in California politics. He was one of the organizers and most active advocates of the Union or Republican party in 1862 and his eminent services in that behalf were rewarded by his appointment as secretary of the United States Senate. He had previously served as clerk of Alcalde Stephen J. Field, afterward Associate Justice of the United States, at Marysville in 1849 and the early fifties, and was later elected the city clerk of that city. In 1863, Justice Field appointed him clerk of the United States Circuit Court at San Francisco, which position he held until 1867, when he made way for L. D. Sawyer, the nephew of United States Circuit Judge Lorenzo Sawyer, whose decisions restraining hydraulic mining in California and settling other notable California suits have passed into the permanent history of the State.

In 1867 Gorham received the nomination of the Republican party for Governor, but he was beaten at the polls by H. H. Haight, partly, if not chiefly on the grounds of his advocacy of unrestricted Chinese immigration, a policy which he afterward repented and repudiated. In 1868 he was elected secretary of the United States Senate, and for twelve years—from 1868 to 1880—he was one of the most influential members of the National Republican Committee.

Gorham's journalistic career embraced editorial service on the Sacramento Daily Standard in 1859; on the San Francisco Daily Nation in 1860; on the Marysville Democrat in 1861; on the Sacramento Daily Union in 1861 and 1862, and on the Washington National Republican from 1880 to 1884. Since 1884, Gorham ceased, however, to be an active figure in national politics and devoted himself to literary pursuits which culminated in his production of the life of Edwin M. Stanton in 1890, the great war secretary of the Lincoln administration. Since then Gorham passed into obscurity, but in his day, although unknown to the present generation, he was one of the brightest and most potent of the galaxy of brilliant and brainy men who figured in the early history of California.

San Leandro is growing so rapidly that its more progressive citizens are beginning to agitate the question of a bond issue to raise money for the erection of two new public school buildings to displace the one now in existence. The community is said to have outgrown the latter.

THE CAPTURE OF NEW ORLEANS, U.S.A.—A PLEASING EVENT OF LINCOLN WEEK

Franklin Street Repaving.

A meeting of the owners of property on Franklin street, between Seventh and Fourteenth streets, was held yesterday to discuss the question of repaving the thoroughfare. Perfect unanimity prevailed among them, all having agreed to co-operate with the city in bearing a share of the cost of the work. Mayor Mott was present and explained what the city would do and what the property owners were asked to do.

Now that the property owners have all joined forces, the improvement will be carried out as expeditiously as possible. The contract for it was awarded some time ago. There is nothing now in the way to delay the work except the unfavorable condition of the weather. Once that gets settled, the contractors will push the improvement ahead.

The repaving of Franklin street is one of the most important street improvements now pending in the city. When completed it will exert a tremendous influence on the status of the street as a business thoroughfare and on the values of property fronting on it. Indeed, it is the wrecked condition of the pavement that has kept Franklin street back so long. With a good, smooth clean pavement the street will be attractive to business. Now that such a pavement is assured, the demands for suitable locations on the street will in all probability stimulate important building improvements all along its frontage.

Russian Intrigue in Manchuria.

The treaty of Portsmouth, which settled the Russian-Japanese war, provided for the withdrawal of the armies of both belligerents from Manchuria and the restoration to the Chinese government within eighteen months of the control of the civil and military affairs of the province, except the military police patrol of the Manchurian railway from the Amoor river to Port Arthur and the control of the Liangtung peninsula and a section of Southern Manchuria which was conceded to the Japanese as the fruits of victory. Both powers were dilatory in fulfilling the obligation to evacuate. But it was finally accomplished. The United States was morally obligated, through the interest the government took in bringing the negotiations of peace to a final termination, to see that the terms of the treaty were fulfilled. Great Britain was indirectly interested in the same, through the peculiar alliance she had entered into with Japan.

Russia is seemingly playing its old game of deception, however; and what she failed to accomplish by armed force she is now endeavoring to accomplish by those underhanded and insidious means she has employed in all her Asiatic operations.

Under the treaty of Portsmouth, it was plainly intended that Russia should evacuate the whole of Northern Manchuria and withdraw all her military forces, except the railroad police patrol, north of the Amoor river. This implied the abandonment of Harbin, her military base and supply depot. This she never did. She has now taken advantage of the neglect of the powers interested in the Portsmouth treaty to violate that convention to the extent of re-establishing her territorial jurisdiction over Northern Manchuria by levying taxes on the Chinese at Harbin, thus reasserting the sovereignty of which she was stripped by the fortunes of war. The resident American consul at Harbin has protested against Russia's action. The British foreign office is not represented at Harbin and is, therefore, not officially cognizant of Russia's violation of the treaty, but it is giving the subject particular attention. Both neutral powers are concerned in the matter, because it has a direct bearing on the question of the open door to foreign trade in Manchuria and the restoration of Chinese sovereignty, both of which were guaranteed in the treaty.

Now that the Grand Duke Vladimir, the Czar's uncle, and the head of the old bureaucracy and the leader of the reactionaries, is dead, the prospects of genuine constitutional reforms being carried out in Russia are vastly improved. Possibly the Czar will hereafter be less vacillating than he has been in the past. The Grand Duke exercised a baneful influence over him. Indeed, the Czar has stood in constant fear of his uncle since he ascended the throne. There will be no mourning among the great mass of the Russian people over the Grand Duke's death, for there was no more heartily hated a man in the empire.

The report of the State Board of Health shows that during the past two years the number of deaths in San Francisco have exceeded the number of births, while in Los Angeles and Oakland the births outnumbered the deaths in 1908.

NOTE EXCERPT

Lowell: How many simple ways there are to be a fool. A man knows the weight of another man's burden. But a fool knows the weight of his own. There is a bitter contest in the Legislature in St. Louis to see which of the contestants shall be given the divorce decree. The "Lavender Lady" of the Amber Husband.

Politicians are sometimes the victims of queer tricks. One of the friends of Mayor Whitcomb of Jersey City visited his office one day last week and invited him to luncheon. In the course of their talk, while eating, a visitor made it known that he would like an appointment, which the mayor said he was unable to provide. With a luncheon was over the visitor suddenly departed, leaving the check for the mayor to pay.

Congress is considering building a memorial highway from Washington to the Gettysburg battlefield. Senator Bacon proposes a "Lincoln Way" connecting Richmond and Washington. No one has yet proposed a highway from San Francisco to Washington. There is more than one way to skin a cat. Also, there are several thousand ways of making a city and getting around an obnoxious law. Chicago's attorney have voted themselves a raise in pay of $1,500 a year, making the figure after April 1 at $8,000. This will affect only the new members to be elected this spring. But the "holders" who are barred by law from any increase during their terms of office, are not left out in the cold. A provision that they shall have $1,500 a year for "private secretaries" has been adopted for their benefit.

Richmond Pearson Hobson, representative from Alabama, young, smooth-faced and bald as an onion, is one of the new members pointed out to the visitors by the House guides. His conferees were discussing Hobson the other evening, and one raised the question as to whether he had treated his fame fairly in leaving the navy, where his reputation was established, and taking up a political career. "That reminds me of what a young Washington girl once said to me," remarked Representative Butler Ames, who was one of the party. "She had married a naval officer and I asked her why she did that, as naval officers are away from home so much. She said she figured the thing pretty carefully and I concluded that if my husband didn't turn out to be my affinity he would be away half the time, and if he did be would be home half the time. What more could one ask?"

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

It's easy to be a fool, and it's foolish to be a fool. A small boy with his first watch has the time of his life. When everybody else is so loaded the reformer has the blues. It takes a jealous woman to see things that are invisible. The average female likes to pose as the reformer of some man. A man isn't too sure of himself because he is afraid to work. When a woman affects simplicity in dress it sets a man guessing. Some people would rather say nothing than speak a kind word. Show us a knocker and we'll show you a man who failed to make good. Frangency makes people disagreeable, but not all disagreeable people are frank. A woman doesn't believe a man loves her unless he is willing to eat any old thing she cooks. A woman is willing to admit a man's superiority when it comes to translating a railway timetable. At the age of six a boy thinks his father is the smartest man on earth; at the age of sixteen he imagines that he has forgotten more than the old man ever knew.

"She's a Peach!"--"A Perfect Peach!" WOMEN IN PUBLIC EYE

Cry These Foreign Judges of Woman's Beauty About Mrs. Raymond What They Have Done to Help Make the News of the World and Gossip of Their Acts.

The connoisseurs of beauty at the Ritz Hotel who have been worshipping remotely at the shrine of Mrs. E. D. Raymond in London are in despair. The fascinating lady has gone to Paris. There she was joined by her husband, a Scotch millionaire, well known in New York. No other example of feminine loveliness at the Ritz approached Mrs. Raymond in pulchritude. Since her charms were described at first in the papers she has been bombarded with letters from artists and photographers begging her for sittings. But nearly all were discouraged by Mr. Raymond.

When Mrs. Raymond appeared first at the Ritz Hotel last month such judges of loveliness as Prince Francis of Teck, Prince Mirek, Lord Woodhouse and Count Sebeny, chorused their respectful approbation, tersely but enthusiastically, thus:

"She is a peach--a perfect peach!"

In whatever toilette Mrs. Raymond appears, she looks equally well, for she has blond hair and an ivory-like complexion which is illumined by great, violet eyes, is tall, slender and graceful.

Mrs. Raymond is Parisian born, it is said, but, having French chic, she adds to it American vivacity and self-poise. From Paris the Raymonds go to Nice to pass the winter.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER IN COURT FIGHT

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.--The strange spectacle of mother and daughter in a bitter feud refusing to speak to each other when they meet on the street and fighting in court for a sum of money, is presented in the suit of Mrs. Carrie Diebold Cline, widow of Charles Diebold, the pioneer safe manufacturer, against her daughter, Mrs. Minnie B. Weaver, 454 Dearborn avenue.

Mrs. Cline demands the return of $1055 which she says she lent her daughter without interest on the condition that the daughter was to provide for her mother.

Now, Mrs. Cline alleges, her daughter has broken the agreement, and she has sued to collect the money.

"I lent my daughter the money June 6, 1902," said Mrs. Cline. "She gave me a promissory note, on which was the stipulation that she should provide for me as long as she lived in the same house, in lieu of interest. Last Monday evening she locked me out of the house, and I filed suit to recover the money. Now that she no longer wants me to live with her, I have sued to recover the amount due me."

Mrs. Cline entered the house through the janitor's aid, and is still living there, but says that she may move to recover the money. Mother and daughter, though living in the same house, do not speak to each other.

WOMAN WANTS TO BE STEAMSHIP CAPTAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.--Mrs. Thomas Withersbee Foote, a petite young matron who looks anything but the typical "salt," is one woman in Chicago, at least, who knows the difference between "starboard" and "port," between "windward" and "leeward," how to "box the compass," to "shoot the sun," to "mark a course" through unknown waters, to make a "ship's manifest," a "charter" and a "bill of lading," and knows the difference between a "bow-sprit" and a "foretopgallant mast."

These are not the only things that Mrs. Foote knows about navigation, sailing, seamanship and launch. She will be "Captain" Foote if she passes the examination for "master's papers" which she is undergoing before Captain

Ira Mansfield, master of the port, in the Federal Building.

"Do I think that I shall ever stand on the bridge of a 500-footer and take her in and out of the harbor or up and down the lake?" said Mrs. Foote. "Well, hardly, but it won't be because I don't know how to pass the exam. I'd be a full-fledged master, so of course I'll have to know how to do all those things."

The Foote-Mrs. Foote is secretary of the Franklin Company and fleet captain of the Jackson Park Club--are building a 45-foot gasoline launch which will be christened "Wavetay-see." Mrs. Foote wants to command the launch, while her husband runs the engine--keeps the present examination.

THE BABY

How strange it seemed to wake last night
And hear the baby breathe--the room
Under the night-lamp's shaded light
Wrapped softly in a gentle gloom!

What mystic wonder stirred us then,
With joy and love what mingled awe,
Before this little slumberer, when
The flowerlike face we dimly saw!

A moment there we hung appalled,
Fearing to read in life's long scrolls
Fate of this soul that we had called
Out of the vasty deep of souls.

Perhaps the Lord of Being bent
That instant to our sudden prayer--
For still the low breath came and went,
But peace and blessing filled the air.

--Harriet Prescott Spofford, in Harper's Bazar

TARDY FAME A TRAGEDY FOR ARTIST

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.--A story of artistic success that came too late lies behind the award of the Young Portraits of $100 to Mrs. Bertha Menzies Drexler for her painting, "The Desert in Sunshine and Shadow," now in the Chicago artists exhibit at the Art Institute. This award is only a part of the success Mrs. Drexler has won, for her paintings have brought her fame and are rapidly bringing her fortune.

If time and fortune had come only a brief two years ago, there might have been in this to save the life of her husband, Edward James Drexler, whom Mrs. Drexler, then in actual poverty, nursed until his death, December 9, 1907. The $100 that now seems to this successful artist a small sum would then have provided her husband with comforts for the last months of his life.

Man Fails; Wife Wins

Mr. Drexler was himself an artist of talent and hope for fame, but tuberculosis laid its clutch on him and ended his dreams of distinction. Now his widow, relieved of his care and enabled to devote all her time and energy to her art, has achieved the fame that was denied him and the means as well.

The unhappy financial and physical condition of Mr. Drexler became known October 1, 1907, when he was elected from the Chicago Home for Incurables, Fifty-sixth street and Ellis avenue. He charged that he was forced to leave because of criticisms of the management.

Duped a Government

Perhaps the most notable female swindler ever known in this country was Mrs. Gordon-Ballie, who, in her girlhood, worked in a jute mill at Dundee. Disappearing for several years, she returned to her native birth as an aristocrat--Mrs. Gordon-Ballie, universal philanthropist, and in particular the friend of the Sicilian crofters. In this guise she obtained gifts of thousands of pounds ostensibly for the furtherance of her philanthropic work, but which really found their way into her own pocket. When Scotland and England were exhausted she went to New York, where she secured from the government of Victoria a grant of 70,000 acres of land whereon to found a settlement for her proteges. Ultimately, however, suspicions were aroused, investigations followed, and this clever swindler was rewarded with five years' penal servitude.

WOMEN STOGIE MAKERS

Jewish and American girls are in the garment factories of Pittsburg, while Irish and German women, the hill-dwelling wives of the miners, hold the subordinate place in the trade. In the stogie industry the Polish women, some of them married and others immigrant girls, have the inferior and unpleasant work. The least desirable occupation for women in stogie factories is tobacco stripping, pulling the stems out of the moist leaves and weighing and tying them in pounds for the rollers in tenement shops. One may find the strippers in a cellar, their backs against a damp wall, working by the light of a flaming gas jet. In a large factory one will see them sitting on their low stools, row behind row, stemming and weighing and throwing the waste to one side. "They would work all night," one foreman said. "If I would give them the chance. We never have any trouble with them; we can't give them enough work to do." They were married women in this case but the rule holds good and there is seldom trouble with the Polish hands in a stogie factory. They are there too much on sufferance for grievances to be worth their while.--Charlotte.

Last Struggle in Van

Mrs. Drexler took her husband to the hospital at 255 Claymont street, where she nursed him. Unable to find time to paint, she was in actual want. Her friend, who was the time of the day for them could be found at the hospital.

With Unkissed Lips

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.--Gladstone, the unkissed son of the late John Alexander Dowle, moved over on his pedestal when word came from New York that the Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Jersey City, never had kissed his wife.

What Froude Says

On Woman Suffrage

Little men, who are afraid that giving the ballot to women would overturn the present order of things, are the subject in his history of the English in the West Indies, on page 187, describing the coaling of a steamship. "The women flew and clamored, as if not wearily was willing to wait, or they had the children upon them, the great wharves of the babies have been brought into this world."

Bishop Rushes to Defense of Woman's Suffrage

Women go to Clubs and Come Home Loaded With Ideas-- Men go to Ball Games and Come Home Loaded

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.--Bishop Charles F. Anderson has added a unique contribution to the arguments in favor of woman suffrage. In an address last night to a man's club he took up the cudgels for the other sex.

"When men have an afternoon off they go to a ball game or a circus," he said. "When women have an afternoon to spend they go to a meeting of the Brown- ing Club. The women come home loaded with ideas; the men come home simply loaded."

"The Bishop went on to say that there was much reason why the women should get together and refuse to allow the men to vote as for the opposite condition to exist."

French Heels Lose Damage Suits for Two Women

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 18.--Two women who wore high French heels lost damage suits here against the public service commission, which controls the electric lines in this city. Both the electric lines in this city. Both the electric lines in this city. Both the electric lines in this city.

After hearing the testimony the jury returned a quick verdict for the company.

To Fully Protect Babies From Bad Nurses

Let baby carriage be tickled like automobiles. Automobiles are valuable--but so are babies. If each carriage bore a number, and that number, in the license book, gave name and address of a mother, say, "Baby carriage 1473. Department of Licenses" should reach the owner, says "Charlotte P. Gilman in Harper's Bazar. Barring a mother, a nice, average, ordinary mother--received one day this:

"Dear Madam--I saw today your nurse slapping the baby to make him stop crying--she said so as she slapped it."

"Mrs. J. R. Johnson, 49 West 99th Street."

BRAVE GIRL FORCES THIEF TO SURRENDER

STURGEON, Mo., Feb. 18.--At the point of a pistol Miss Mary McCarthy, a 22-year-old railroad telegraph operator, captured a man suspected of connection with the cracking of the safe in her office. She held him against the wall while with her left hand she telegraphed for assistance from Chillicothe. Sheriff White came and arrested the man.

Miss McCarthy, after opening the station found the safe had been blown open. Soon a man entered, and she noticed a ticket in his hand. She asked to see the ticket and found the duplicate still in the safe.

As her visitor took flight and attempted to bolt out the door she turned on him with the command, "Throw up your hands!" Instead the robber reached for his gun. The girl fired, the bullet passing close to his head, and he surrendered.

TONY, HER POODLE, HAS FINE BURIAL

WARSAW, Ind., Feb. 18.--With the solemnity accompanying the obsequies of a statesman, Tony, a French poodle, owned by Mrs. Lillian Black, of New York, got a decent burial today in Warsaw. The silk-lined coffin containing the body of Tony arrived this morning by express and was delivered at the home of Mrs. Eliza Kerns, mother of Mrs. Black, who, complying with her daughter's request, had the body interred in the center of a flower-bed in front of the Kerns home, while neighbors vented their wrath.

Constable A. C. Farber officiated as pallbearer, preacher and sexton. Complaints have been filed with the authorities and it may be necessary to disinter the remains of Tony.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE FEMININE IN CRIME Make Most Daring of Wrongdoers--Cleverest and Very Hardest to Catch

LONDON Feb. 18.--A beautiful woman, an extravaganza, makes a far more dangerous swindler than the cleverest of men crooks, a well-known detective remarked to the writer recently, the truth of which assertion seems to be borne out by the remarkable frauds and swindles perpetrated within recent years by fascinating women.

The favorite device seems to consist of impersonating society aristocrats and even titled men when occasion demands. Just over twelve months ago, for instance, a mother and daughter were each sentenced to three months' hard labor at the Worcester Quarter Sessions for defrauding the tradespeople of Malvern. Goals were obtained on credit on the representation that they were for a certain Count Aviglio, who was impersonated by the daughter. At the trial it was proved that the latter had her hair cut short, and posed in a suit of man's clothing as Count Aviglio, who was represented as being immensely rich, but temporarily embarrassed.

The tale quite "took in" the tradespeople of Malvern, particularly when documents were exhibited purporting to come from the Inner Temple, and to relate to the count's property at Jerusalem and elsewhere. When afterwards proved, the documents were a fraud.

Mme. Humbert an Italian

A queer case which recalls Mme. Humbert and her phantom millions was that of an Italian woman named Filomena Spavento, who, in February, 1907, was placed on trial in Rome for a series of frauds which closely resembled the famous "French" case. This female swindler of Italy posed as the Marchioness Venezia, and on the strength of alleged relationship with the elite of Rome she ran up large bills with dressmakers and other tradespeople, borrowed valuable jewelry and quickly substituted paste for the real diamonds, obtained a few thousands on the pretext of prosecuting a lawsuit against her cruel relatives, and, in a word, "did" almost everybody and anybody with whom she came in contact.

Another prototype of Mme. Humbert

RIBBON LABELS ON TRIPLETS TELL WHICH IS WHICH

Even Mrs. Shuttleworth Is Puzzled to Distinguish Members of Her Family.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.--The mother of the Shuttleworth triplets had to pin ribbons of pink, red and blue on them today to tell them apart. They are Brooklyn's newest triplets, and although they resembled peas in a pod when they first began taking notice of things at No. 1088 Pacific street, their voices were so different it was no trouble to tell which was hungry. Today all their voices sounded alike, and Alma Bindberg, the nurse, was sent in a hurry to the nearest dry goods store to buy ribbons of various hues.

They are children of Richard Shuttleworth, an employee of the Nassau brewery, 23 years old and his wife Jennie, who is only 20 and who was the first of the triplets. Richard and his wife lived at No. 705 Prospect place, Brooklyn, and he and Miss Smith attended public school No. 43, at Classon and St. Mark's avenues.

Their romance began when they were 10 years old. He stopped every day to escort her to school and waited for her after it was over to take her home. Little more than a year ago they went to St. Theresa's Church, in Classon avenue, which both had attended since able to walk, and were married by the Rev. Father Appo, the pastor.

Young Shuttleworth is very proud of his fine family. The boy is so healthy and so fond of the milk bottle that it has to be kept constantly filled at his side. There is a report he was to be named "William Taff Shuttleworth," but today the father declared he had changed his mind, and that the first, noisy youngster should have his own name, Richard. The girls are to be named Jennie, for the mother, and Eva, for the maternal grandmother.

Finds Wedding Ring ON WAY FOR LICENSE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.--Miss E. Besse Crum started downtown this afternoon with her fiancé, Dudley D. Compton, to obtain a marriage license at the City Hall bureau.

As they crossed Broadway at City Hall Park Miss Crum held up a trolley car and a horse by dashing in front of them to pick up something on the pavement. She held it up and smiled on her sweetheart.

"It's a wedding ring," she said. They decided that if no one claimed the ring to use it for their wedding. "Oh, won't papa be surprised," she said, when the clerk was making out the certificate. "He is in Elkton, Ky., where I live, and he doesn't know yet."

CHARGES WILLFUL NEGLECT OF DUTY

Barclay Henley Accuses U. S.
District Attorney in Jury
Fixing Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15. — "If the United States District Attorney will not do his duty, I must step in and do that duty that he is neglecting."

This statement was made by Attorney Barclay Henley before Judge Shorall yesterday afternoon when the question of jury fixing was brought up for hearing in the case of the people against Charles Snell, accused by Robert Perrin, brother of Dr. E. B. Perrin, whom it is claimed by the former was convicted on alleged false testimony entered by Snell in the trial of Dr. Perrin before the federal court in the gigantic land fraud case.

It was the contention of Assistant United States District Attorney A. P. Black that Henley had no jurisdiction to prosecute the case. It was then that the attorney made the statement, charging the United States District Attorney, Robert Devlin, with willful neglect of duty. In furtherance of the position he was assuming in presenting the charge of jury fixing against Snell, Henley cited a decision handed down by Judge Fields in a similar case.

Judge Shorall declared the decision to be very strong and of the point of the law in the favor of Henley when Black interrupted an objection on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to decide that question. Shorall then declared that he wished to look into the law on the matter before giving out his decision.

SON IS ALLOWED PAY FOR LODGING MOTHER

In the case of Anna J. Gilson against George L. Derrick, the decision of the superior court of Oakland and directed the lower court to allow the sum of $388.62 for board and lodging. The defendant's accounting in the plaintiff's case is a peculiar one, inasmuch as the plaintiff is the mother of the defendant and the merits seem to have brought both matters of law and equity. Derrick some time before May, 1902, brought his mother from Reno to his home in Oakland and on account of the latter's illness. On the date mentioned she became incompetent and was appointed her guardian, remaining as such until 1904. In that year she regained her health and competency, returned to Reno and conducted her own business.

The suit which the mother brought against the son for an accounting of her business during her incompetency, Derrick set up a claim for $388.62 for board and lodging. The plaintiff's family in Oakland. In the opinion of the court it was stated that the evidence showed that the mother was perfectly able to support herself and to pay for such services and that, while it was not usual for a son to charge his mother with board and lodging, Derrick had a family of his own to support and that it was very fair to deduct the sum mentioned from the total amount of money handled by him for his mother during her incompetency, which amount was $3185.76.
